Editorial

As always I'm indebted to you all for making sure we have a well filled, entertaining and informative newsletter delivered on time. I must apologise however for being a bit of a bully, as I hound you for your articles, and with so much going on here in Glenfarg, I'm not surprised you have no time to sit down and write an article.

With this issue we welcome back our regular advertisers, the backbone of the publication, and say hello to some first timers. However the Village Store ad in this issue has just reminded me that it is Spring Cleaning time. Oh well I suppose I will need something to do in the next couple of weeks before the garden starts screaming at me.

April is such a lovely month and the time when we welcome all our visitors to the 35th Folk Feast which is detailed on pages 46 & 47. Who will be crowned World Puff-a-box Champion this year? The programme for the weekend guarantees entertainment for all and with good weather there is likely to be the impromptu outdoor sing-a-longs around the hotel and in the Glenfarg Green.

This year's Fete sounds like it's going to be a real fun time and I love the Scarecrow theme (see page 6 for details). I believe that if you say something often enough it comes true. So here I go again, "June 8th is going to be a nice sunny day in Glenfarg."

Having been one of the lucky Wine Club members who, in 2008, went to Provence, and the village where the film "Jean de Florette" was filmed, I would recommend you all go along to the Community Cinema on 19th April. The countryside is beautiful and the story is fantastic. A great film.

As a bit of fun I sent a copy of the Glenfarg Newsletter to my distant cousin who lives in San Diego (much like Glenfarg only more people). His comments brought Burns to my mind, "To see ourselves as others see us" My cousin writes "We are especially impressed by the sense of community that is Glenfarg. The offer by the Glenfarg Village Store to store one's mail while on vacation just blew us away. You enjoy a degree of intimacy with the community that just doesn't exist in something the size of San Diego."

Here's hoping in the next issue I'm reporting on a bit of Californian weather here in Glenfarg (especially for the Folk Feast and the Fete).

Kate

Glenfarg Fete 2013

A Fete to Remember!

This year's fete will be a Bran Tub of activities, attractions, events and shows for all preferences, all ages and all tastes. The theme is Scarecrows, and besides the usual Fancy Dress competition between suitably shabby children and adults, there will be a 'Best Scarecrow' competition being run in the gardens of the villages throughout the locality running up to the actual fete on June 8th. More details later.

The actual fete will be a whirlwind of displays of derring-do including horses vaulting, raptor flying, Sky Divers diving, Bouncy Sumo Wrestlers bouncing, Air Balloons ballooning.

There will be an active Licensed Bar, soft drinks and solid drinks and a sizzling, searing BBQ. The Craft Tent will be full of local artists, artisans, craftsmen and charlatans displaying their skills and their wares. There will be music, both local and national including the Perth Melody Movers and the Family Watt, a children's entertainer, our usual Dog Show, side shows, book stall and bric a brac. Plants, blooming and potential, White elephants, bows and arrows, fun runs and frolicking, little trains and big trains, our own Big Raffle Draw & much much more...!!!!

Put it in your diary. Cancel your cruises. Don't miss the Glenfarg Fete. Saturday June 8th! Gettit???

MARETTE AIRD

Sadly on the 24th of February, Marette Aird passed away.

Marette was loved by all who knew her, she was a beautiful, elegant and vibrant lady with a great sense of humour.

Despite her progressive health problems, she always remained positive, and never complained about her life.

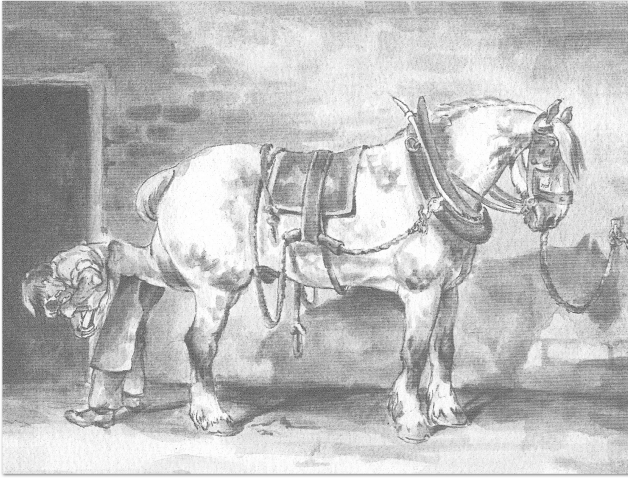

She was involved with many things in the village especially the Wine Club where she enjoyed a glass of wine and trips abroad with many of her friends.

Our thoughts are with her husband David and all their family.

Marette will be sadly missed in the village, but she will never be forgotten and will be remembered by everyone who had the pleasure of knowing and meeting her.

Marette was Gorgeous!

Ski-ing

The ski-ing excursion to Glen Shee on 26 February was a great success. The thirty-eight pupils had a wonderful time. The children made great progress over the course of their lessons. From learning to move on their skis and how to get up when they fell down, the children went on to ski in and out of poles and to do turns. Five pupils who could ski already took advantage of the fantastic weather conditions and skied down the advanced slopes.

Many thanks to our parent helpers. We couldn't have done it without them. Thanks also to Mrs Adam for organising the trip.

Look out Glen Shee.....Arngask will be back next year!!

Mary's Meals

Pupils have decided to support the charity Mary's Meals. The Backpack Project involves filling backpacks with basic educational materials to send to children receiving Mary's Meals. Most of the children who benefit from Mary's Meals and the Backpack Project have suffered war, poverty, famine, or natural disaster.

Very often families cannot afford to buy basic things like pencils and copy books, or even suitable clothes for their children to wear to school. And so their children miss out on school and an education. A simple backpack with educational materials can be a lifeline to these children as studies show that an education is the best way a chronically poor child can escape poverty in later life.

Many thanks to the families who have contributed items already.

Marie Connor, Headteacher

Arngask Church News

Spring 2013

Dear Friends,

Yes, I am still here as Locum Minister of Abernethy and Dron and Glenfarg; probably by the time you read this letter I will have been Locum Minister for a year, and the congregation will still be looking for a permanent minister to take them forward.

These days there are few people who feel called to train for the Ministry of Word and Sacrament. The reasons for this situation are numerous: we are living in an increasingly secular society; the pool from which to draw recruits is shrinking as congregations shrink; pressure from the peer group is strong etc. As this century unfolds, congregations will need to live by sharing ministers more widely, and by doing more for themselves. I see no alternative.

However, I am not downhearted. I know the parish church still has an important role to play. It will always be a place of welcome at any time. It will always be a place where people can go when others will not listen to them or tolerate them. It will always be the place where we can be ourselves in the presence of a power beyond our understanding. It will always be the place where we will be challenged to open our minds to new possibilities in life. It will always be the place which reminds us that rich and poor are as one in the eyes of God. It will always be the place where we are reminded that everyone needs a second chance in life. It will always be the place where we can mark the main personal and national events in life. It will always be the place to go when we are hurting. But these things need to be experienced by a wider community.

Here in Arngask we, along with our friends in Abernethy and Dron, have set up a “Think Tank” to brainstorm ideas for the development of the church in the community. No matter how many ideas we may have there will always be more and probably better ones. If you have the time and the inclination to do so, would you please pass on any ideas you may have. My postal and email addresses are on this letter.

Meantime, let's enjoy this Spring in all its beauty and with its promises of warmer Summer days.

Rev Duncan Stenhouse
Locum Minister

FIRE SAFETY IN THE HOME

In 2011/2012 there were over 32,000 fires in Scotland. Of these, over 5,000 were in homes in which 51 people died and over 1,200 people were injured. In many cases the house or flat was destroyed or badly damaged and treasured possessions lost. With this in mind, here are some tips from the Scottish Fire & Rescue Service to help you make your home safer from fire:

- Fit a smoke alarm on every level i.e., upstairs and downstairs.
- Test the alarm/s once a week. Replace the batteries periodically.
- Plan an escape route and make sure everybody knows how to get out if there's a fire.
- Stub cigarettes out properly and dispose of them carefully.
- Do not leave young children alone in the kitchen when cooking and keep matches and saucepan handles out of their reach.
- Take care when cooking with hot oil – especially if you have been drinking alcohol.
- Ensure candles are secured in a proper holder and keep them away from curtains and other fabrics.
- Do not overload electrical sockets – try to keep to one plug per socket.
- If you have an open fire – use a fireguard.

FREE HOME FIRE SAFETY VISIT

The Scottish Fire & Rescue Service will carry out a FREE fire safety check of your home and install smoke alarms (if required).

To request a free home fire safety visit call 0300 123 9998.

Sticky Sausages

I find these Sticky Sausages are always a big hit when accompanying pre dinner drinks, and make a nice change from the usual canopies!

The quantities can be changed quite easily to accommodate the number of guests, and I would budget for around 4 or 5 sausages per person. Yes, they are very popular!!

The quantities here are sufficient for 6 people:

24 good quality short pork cocktail sausages - chipolatas are ideal

5 tablespoons hoisin sauce

6 tablespoons runny honey

1 dessert spoon white mustard seeds

Cocktail sticks to serve

Toss all the above ingredients together in a roasting tin, including the seeds, and cook in a preheated oven at 180' for about 30 minutes

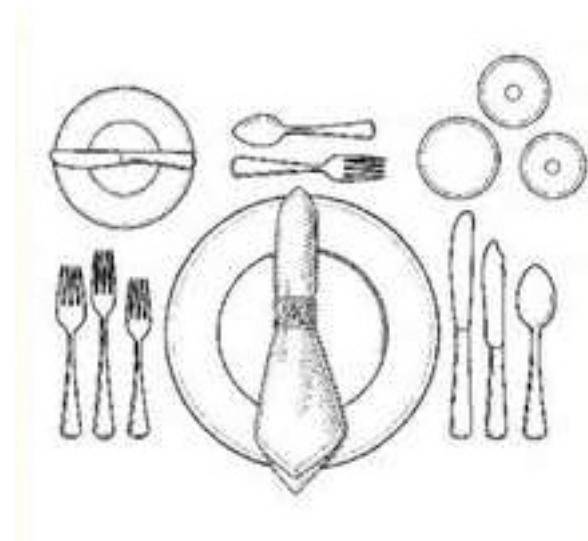

Stir occasionally to allow them to brown all over and prevent sticking. Serve warm....

Enjoy!!

A Taste of Glenfarg

Gordon and I recently experienced the joys of chef Mark's foray into the realms of 'tasting menus' at the Glenfarg Hotel, the concept as some of you may know, being a number of courses of smaller portions of 'high end' refined cuisine.

We had a couple of friends from Stirling over for dinner on a Friday night in February and asked Mark a few days beforehand if he would be happy to prepare something along the 'tasting menu' lines for the four of us. He came up with a menu that instantly appealed to us and we were happy to go with his selection for each course. First up was the 'Tian of Avocado, Egg, Tiger Prawn and Pan Fried Scallops' - a variety of really fresh flavours and a wonderful opening to the meal, and so beautifully presented, a picture on a plate. Next up was the 'Risotto of Red Wine, Parmesan and Pancetta'. We weren't sure initially about the idea of red wine in a risotto but it added a gorgeous warm burgundy colour to the rice and a lovely rounded flavour which was an excellent background to the rich, strong pancetta, and the salty moreish parmesan, without any of the ingredients feeling heavy or one overpowering the other.

Next up was a classic of the Glenfarg Hotel that's been popular for some time, but with a new twist, 'Pan Fried Gressingham Duck on Chinese Greens with a Sweet Potato and Mango Mash'. The Duck was succulent and the sauce heavenly, tangy and a perfect companion to the duck. By this stage of the meal all four of us were well impressed with the standard of the food and wondering why people would venture to Edinburgh for, in some cases, over-inflated prices, and over-rated and over-hyped 'celebrity' restaurants, when we have the makings of such excellent fine dining on our doorstep. Mark was very attentive and popped through now and again to get our feedback. You could sense his enthusiasm for providing dishes of this calibre, and his delight at our reactions.

To finish we had an Anton Mossiman-inspired dessert of 'Apricot and Praline Parfait' with a Passion Fruit Coulis and a Pony of Californian Muscat'. This was decorated with an intricate piece of sugar work, and each element went so well with the others, it was a joy filling up your spoon with a bit of everything and washing it down with the dessert wine, an excellent match.

All in all a fantastic meal, and we look forward to hearing about some dates for the diary when Mark starts rolling out a regular 'tasting menu' event.

Leigh Smith

NEW DOG FOULING SIGNS INSTALLED IN WALLACE PARK

The photograph shows Kirsteen MacKenzie, our local Dog Warden installing new dog fouling signs in Wallace Park and on the path leading from the Park to Duncrievie. The signs remind dog owners to bag their dog's mess and to put the bag in a waste bin. The signs also warn dog owners that they could be fined £40.00 if they fail to pick up after their dogs. More signs are planned for other parts of Glenfarg, Duncrievie and Drunzie.

Suspicious death in the Farg

(A Fishy Tale)

A couple of weeks ago, I was throwing sticks into the Farg in what I still call, 'Lascelles Garden'. The dog was, as usual, trying to catch them before the current whisked them out of reach and she fetched up, what I thought, was a long piece of decomposing vegetation. She was treating it as though it was edible and I decided it was time to investigate. When I approached her she growled. Obviously thought I was wanting to eat it too. What an earth was it? I grabbed her collar and took it off her cautiously and found she had a huge, stinking, rotten salmon, unmistakable orange flesh blackened and 'gungy'. And by the time I'd got it off her we were both reekin' as well.

Now, it seems a bit far-fetched to think that salmon have been trying to get to the upper reaches of The Farg but it seems equally odd that someone would go to all the trouble of popping a dead salmon into the burn. Seems a bit fishy to me (sorry - had to get that one in!).

Glenfarg Explorer Winter Activities

Winter Hillwalking

The explorers were treated to the best a Scottish Winter can offer when they joined up with some Fife explorers and winter mountain leaders to tackle the Tarmachan ridge. Admittedly the meeting time of 7am is not a time when teenagers are known to be active but it was well worth the effort.

The summits of the munros were clear as we drove up to the car park near the old Lawers' visitors centre. Even with the flat light, the snow covered hills were enticing. Before leaving the car park the explorers were fitted for crampons and once armed with an ice axe they eagerly headed up the track.

Once the first suitable slope had been reached, the party was given instructions on how to use their ice axe should they fall. They learnt how to use the ice axe to stop themselves sliding down the slope if they were on their backs going feet first. Craig discovered what happens when you aren't attached to the ice axe – it stays in the snow and you continue to slide down the slope. Confidence gained they learnt how to control and stop a head first descent.

Crampons were then attached to boots and the party continued over the frozen snow towards the summit. The short steep ascent to the summit using a line of old footprints Niall described as “awesome”. Three explorers were invested on the summit. Despite being under the cloud we could see the sun on the hills to the west, Ben Cruachan above Loch Awe was clear.

the ridge to the second top where the sun came out and they posed for pictures with the main summit in the background. With Ben Nevis now visible in the north west, it was like a day in the alps.

Between the second and third tops there is a “bad step”. We perched on the side of the hill warmed by the sunshine as each member of the party made their way down. You had to face into the hill and climb down using the frozen footsteps as both foot and handholds and the ice axe for extra protection. The ecstatic explorers waited for the additional adults in the party to meet them in the coll before the last top. The offer of missing the top out was treated with scorn.

Descending from the last coll down to the snow covered landrover track was hot in the full sun even though the actual temperature was not much above freezing. Crampons were finally removed on the landrover track, the risk of tired explorer scouts tripping and puncturing themselves with a spike now exceed the risk of injury from falling. The group is looking forward to the next winter walk at the end of March, the leaders aware that repeating the superb conditions is unlikely.

February Skiing

The lift information board said the weather would test the quality of our merino wool clothing. The cloud was blowing across the car park and the wind was whipping the spindrift across the area at head height. Undeterred the explorers headed off to ski hire to collect their equipment.

A warm up on Claybokie and the group split with those that had found their ski legs heading off to more challenging runs. The expert group returned to say they were heading across the road in the hope that they wouldn't need to push their way down the runs using their sticks.

The Glenshee performance squad were training on Claybokie - we should have remembered that their canny coaches would be using the most sheltered area. The second group followed the others to the Sunnyside slope. We couldn't see the bottom of the lift from the top but that didn't bother the explorers who after a couple of waits in the queue for the poma decided that the chair lift would do. The lift hut provided a small amount of shelter watching the explorers continue to ski the same run.

The experienced group went over the back to a deserted Corrie Finn. They soon find out why as they became disorientated in the poor visibility. Undeterred three of the explorers decided to go up the Glas Moal tow onto the summit plateau. Even they decided that it wasn't worth repeating.

After lunch all 10 explorers skied the Sunnyside runs as a group before heading back to the cafe for shelter. Some brave individuals headed out for a final half hour, they were lucky with a break in the cloud enabling them to see the whole run. A day to remember that "if you can ski in Scotland you can ski anywhere in the world".

Glenfarg Scouts Skiing

The snow was blowing gently across the car park when we arrived but the sun was shining. Once kitted out the scouts sat in the warmth of the cafe waiting for the leaders to return before heading off to the nursery slopes.

Cameron found that his feet and the basic ski boots weren't compatible and ended up wearing a pair of racing boots. After a few runs the group progressed to the rope tow and then the dink-dink poma. Louise had a couple of runs on Sunnyside and then went up to Claybokie with Struan and Callum. Grant and Oliver practised hard all morning and progressed to join Struan, Callum and Louise on Claybokie in the afternoon sunshine. Callum took a tumble and got a lift down on a skidoo. Cameron watched the others ski in the afternoon as found he had damaged his feet in his ski boots – he should have been given the camera! The scouts were pleased with their progress on skis and keen to try it again.

Glenfarg Wine Club

Margaret Ponton and Hazell Allan presented to the January meeting and bravely chose as their theme, low alcohol wines. However the attendees were well entertained through the girls' excellent explanations of low alcohol wine production methods and history.

A glass was raised at the March meeting to Murette, a much loved member of the Wine Club since its inception. Murette's untimely death has left a void in the club and the village community as a whole.

The wines at this meeting were presented by guest presenter, Jo Williamson. His choices compared 3 Rieslings from different countries and 3 Bordeaux blends again from different countries.

"Baccy", the Presenter of the Year trophy 2012 was awarded to Jordon & David, part time referees, who presented a Chile v. France theme in February 2012 with plenty of footballing references.

More hot air from Old Foggie

At the beginning of March we had some fine weather with spring-like temperatures. Warmth from sunshine feels good after days of frost and cloud.

It seems strange to think that the air around us is warmed from the ground and not directly by the sun. Especially when you can feel the heat of the sun on your skin. But the energy from the sun is actually absorbed in the upper layers of the soil and re-radiated back into the atmosphere as heat.

Now as the air near the ground heats up, it begins to rise. As nature abhors a vacuum, cooler air falls to replace it. The movement of warm and cool air reaches a peak just after noon and tails off as the sun descends from it's zenith.

With sophisticated sensors, meteorologists can measure moment to moment changes in the vertical wind speed as eddies distribute warm and cool air throughout the lower atmosphere.

If it's not too windy, results from a basic weather station can give an insight into this turbulent mixing of air. The chart shows the air temperature and wind speed for the 2nd to the 4th of March. Notice how the air temperature begins to rise around eight o'clock, reaching a peak in the early afternoon.

The increase in temperature reflects the increase in air movement as packets of warmed air rise higher and faster making way for descending cooler air. And as this activity reaches a maximum, wind speed increases. Although the standard wind gauge is built to record horizontal wind speed, rather than vertical, there is sufficient turbulence in the atmosphere to spin the gauge as the temperature peaks. Through the evening, the temperature falls and the wind speed drops off as motion in the air decreases.

So although you can't see it, there's a lot going on around us when the sun's out.

Glenfarg & Duncrievie in Bloom

Spring has sprung or has it? I write this on a lovely mid March day when I've just been clearing snow from the paths and taking photos of icicles hanging from a shrub that thought it was safe to start budding. Not to worry, by the time you're reading this, the April sunshine will be here and the bulbs will again be putting on their colourful show.

Our plug plants will be arriving any day now and I am delighted that this year we have no fewer than 13 greenhouse owners who are all doing their bit to ensure a great summer display throughout Glenfarg & Duncrievie.

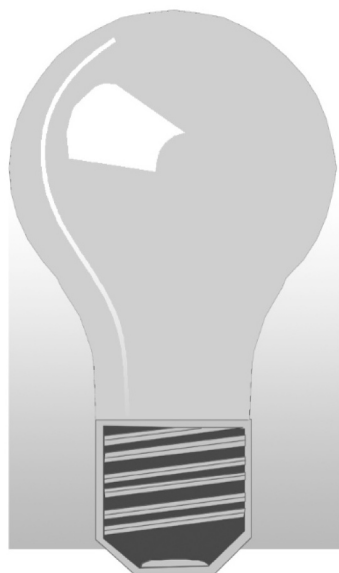

The Glenfarg scouts will again be helping us this year as they work to achieve their Community badges. Our youngsters (and their leaders) are simply the best. This Spring we will be assisting Arngask PS establish a raised bed vegetable garden at the school and we thank Robert Doig for again donating a tattie box, which will be transformed by Stewart Smith's circular saw! Thank you also to John MacGregor of Binn Skips, and his staff, who have repaired Roary after the vandalism. John is also repairing Roary's "coat" and putting some greenery on Roary's bare legs. A special thank you to Lorne Findlay who, over the past couple of months, has transformed the hedge in the Glenfarg Green from a jungle to a manicured boundary. Even in Winter there's no time off!

This spring the Glenfarg Green pond is being drained, cleaned and having some of the vegetation removed. This work is jointly funded by GDIB and a CBF microgrant as P&KC do not maintain the pond.

We are most grateful to Mark's second hand book sales which give a regular boost to our funds. Did you know that Mark has extended this to DVDs & CDs? Check out the bookcase next time you're in the shop.

Our AGM will be held in the Village Hall on 22nd May at 7.30. All welcome.

Glenfarg Community Cinema

Here are some dates for your diaries.

19th April

The next film at Glenfarg Community Cinema will be Jean de Florette – a beautiful french film with english subtitles. After the success of the last French Night, we will once again be providing french bread, cheeses and other goodies – you bring the wine.

This film is set in the Provence village that was visited by the Wine Club a few years ago, so we will be starting with some photos and reminiscences of that time. It sounds like a little bit of Scotland was established in Provence – in the bars anyway!

10th May

Unfortunately, due to inclement weather and the spreading of germs, we were forced to cancel the showing of Warhorse in January. However, not wanting to miss this great film, we decided to extend the planned season into May. So this will now be our last film show before we close for the summer months. New season will start next September.

14th May

The Annual General Meeting of Glenfarg Community Cinema will be held at 7.30pm in the Meeting Room at the Village Hall. All are welcome. Please come along to find out how well the cinema has done in its first year and what plans we have for the new season. We also welcome any comments / suggestions on how the cinema has been run.
